Box No. II Priority

1. ☐ This report has been established as if no priority had been claimed due to the failure to furnish within the prescribed time limit the requested:
- ☐ copy of the earlier application whose priority has been claimed (Rule 66.7(a)).

3. Additional observations, if necessary:

Box No. V Reasoned statement under Article 35(2) with regard to novelty, inventive step or industrial applicability; citations and explanations supporting such statement

1. Statement

Novelty (N)	Yes: Claims	1-12
	No: Claims
Inventive step (IS)	Yes: Claims
	No: Claims	1-12
Industrial applicability (IA)	Yes: Claims	1-12
	No: Claims

2. Citations and explanations (Rule 70.7):

see separate sheet

Reference is made to the following documents:

D1: US-A-4 975 177

D2: US-A-3 005 768

1. The present application does not meet the requirements of Art. 33 PCT because the subject-matter of claim 1, does not involve an inventive step in the sense of Art. 33 (3) PCT.
 - 1.1. Document D1 discloses (see figure 1, abstract, column 5, lines 24-28, column 6, lines 33-35 and 58-60, column 10, lines 49-68) a process to prepare a base oil from which the subject-matter of claim 1 only differs in that the product is transported from one location to another, after hydroisomerisation and before a solvent dewaxing step.
 - 1.2. The problem that the present application solves may be considered as providing the final product at the location closer to the end user.
 - 1.3. It has to be pointed out that D1 does not exclude to transport the intermediate product from one location to another and that even the dislocation of the said intermediate product through a pipe is also a kind of transportation.
 - 1.4. However, such a solution is already well known in the art for example it is already suggested by D2, which considers to solvent dehaze base oils to the desired final haze properties (see for example column 1, lines 40-43), which base oils being considered as a feedstock.

Transporting feedstock or intermediate products from a location to another is a common practice in the petrochemical industry and therefore transporting the hydroisomerised oil from one location to another is merely one of the different straightforward possibilities from which the skilled person would select, in accordance with circumstances, without the exercise of inventive skill, in order to solve the problem posed.

2. Dependent claims 2 to 12 do not appear to contain any additional features which, in combination with the features of any claim to which they refer, meet the requirements of the PCT with respect to inventive step, because their additional features are either anticipated by D1 or rendered obvious by the available prior art.

(SEPARATE SHEET)

3. Claims 1, 5, 6-8 do not meet the requirements of Article 6 PCT in that the matter for which protection is sought is not clearly defined. The claims attempt to define the subject-matter in terms of the result to be achieved, which merely amounts to a statement of the underlying problem, without providing the technical features necessary for achieving this result.
4. The term "remote" used in claim 1 is vague and unclear and leave/s the reader in doubt as to the meaning of the technical features to which it refers, thereby rendering the definition of the subject-matter of said claim unclear, Article 6 PCT.
